Pastor's Notes

To Shine Like the Stars

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

The other day I was in our church staring at the gold stars on the ceiling. I love the night skies, especially in rural areas with little light pollution. If you have ever been to the White Mountains near Pinetop or Lake Powell in the northern part of our state, you will have seen those stars in the night sky - always so clear and vivid. Falling stars are especially amazing to experience. I feel God's presence very often in those moments.

The stars in our church and in our adoration chapel remind me of God. In Catholic art, they represent the dome of heaven, connecting the earthly worship space to the heavenly Kingdom of God. The stars in our church are meant to remind us that stepping inside the church is an entry into sacred, eternal space. Within God's Church, heaven and earth unite. Of course, heaven is reflected most clearly in Holy Mass, but also when one is just sitting in the pew quietly praying, surrounded by images of the celestial.

I wanted to know more about the stars, so I did a bit of research. The patterns of the stars reflect God's orderly creation. Throughout sacred art, stars also serve as powerful symbols and are often used to represent concepts such as lineage, honor, and guidance. The Catholic Church has long supported the study of the stars and the natural world. Throughout history, priests and clerics have made significant contributions to astronomy and science. For example, Georges Lemaître, a Belgian diocesan priest, proposed the Big Bang theory in 1927, revolutionizing our understanding of the universe's origin. The Church also supports astronomical observatories and scientific research institutions worldwide, reflecting Her commitment to exploring the wonders of creation. This sort of science is rooted in the Church's belief that faith and reason are complementary paths to truth; both faith and reason reveal aspects of God's design.

Following the recent election, I was thinking about our country. I was concerned about who would be elected and truly sad that no matter what the result, half our country would be elated, and half would be depressed. How did we end up here? It doesn't seem like the country that my parents loved and grew up in. I didn't watch much of the results on election night. Honestly, I was too tired. The next morning, I looked at the readings for the Mass. The first reading for that day was from Philippians. St. Paul said, "Do everything without grumbling or arguing, so that you may become blameless and pure, children of God without fault in a warped and crooked generation. Then you will shine among them like stars in the sky as you hold firmly to the word of life." Hmm... doesn't seem like a coincidence.

A fact that we all know but rarely think about is that the stars are always shining. While their brightness shines only at night, they are still shining during the day. This is similar to us when we live the Gospel. When people are moral and respect life, truth, honesty, and God, Christians don't need to stand out per se. For the sun dominates the skies, just like Jesus shines brightly in a well-ordered society. But when moral darkness descends, THEN, those who live the Gospel are called to shine brightly—like stars in the sky. And just as stars helped people find their bearings at night in ancient times, so we Christians must do the same when we stand for what is right, for the sanctity of human life, the holiness of marriage, the preservation of truth, the value of honesty, and our common need of God. Christians, like the stars in the darkness, are called to help people find their bearings in a complicated and sometimes dark world.

Sometimes being a star in the night is hard. And when you focus on a single star in the sky, it can look lonely all by itself. We prefer safety in numbers, but Jesus doesn't promise that. You and I are just supposed to shine—all day and all night in every age and accept the consequences of shining.

No matter your politics—Democrat, Republican, Independent, or if you are apathetic about politics altogether- we all have evangelical work to do. We are called to shine like the North Star, which, incidentally, is not even close to being the brightest star in the heavens! Scholars say it is the 47th brightest star in the sky. But it shines! It is known because of its alignment, appearing nearly stationary in the night sky while all other northern stars appear to rotate around it, so it is known to be stable and permanent. That's what we are called to be always. That is who God created us to be. Incidentally, some who are lost will choose to walk in the darkness or to avoid the light. But at least they know where the light is. So, let's change the narrative. Let's shine in faith, both in the light of day and especially in the darkness.

God Bless,

Fr. Don Kline
